Roadmap

The gallery will function in such a way:
each object in the portfolio, when you click on it, will go to another page where full information about this object will be provided like we did for GOT project.
The information is
- who made this object
- what programs were used to create this object
- link
- description of the object.
 Also, maybe projects will be called upon clicking from the database using ajax and then displayed on the screen.

    I will use Ajax for error pages of different pages of the website and for resume as well.

    The search for data will take place in this way, first the data will be written to the json file, then everything will be connected through the js file, and then all the data will be displayed on the screen.
